

THE WAYFARER

Reimagining the Possible • Charting the Way for Change

The Wayfarer is the literary magazine of Homebound Publications. The journal is released biannually every spring and autumn. We publish a high-quality journal of literature and art that inspires and points the way for visionary-yet-practical change. In each issue, we feature writing, original art and photography. We explore the spiritual progression we are currently experiencing as individuals and a global community. In recent years, we've interviewed such notable figures such as Academy Award Nominated Filmmaker Tomm Moore, Emmy-Winning Filmmaker Alan Cooke, Sandy Hook mother Nelba Márquez-Greene, and celebrated Shamanic writer Sandra Ingerman, and figured poetry and essays from dozens of award-winning authors.

Our content runs in the same vein as that of Parabola Magazine, Orion Magazine, and The Sun. The journal has only been in operation since the autumn of 2012 but our readership is already over 5,000 and growing.

So as not to bombard our readership, each issue we only sell a limited amount of advertising space. Each issue runs 83 pages long. We sell only 14 of those pages for AD space and disperse them evenly throughout the magazine. This means your ad will stand out and not get lost in a sea of classifieds. Printed in full color, the journal is as much a work of art as it is literature and entertainment.
